

WORKING WITH THE CITY ON YOUR NEXT CONSTRUCTION PROJECT

Why does the city license contractors and require construction permits?

The City of Rawlins licenses contractors and requires construction permits (and their resulting inspections) to ensure building codes are being met for the health and safety of current and future residents. We require all contractors working within City limits to be licensed per Rawlins Municipal Code 15.28.020. Work can also be performed by homeowners provided that 1) all work meets the requirements of the code, 2) a permit is issued, and 3) required inspections are performed by the building inspector.

Why a Licensed Contractor?

The City of Rawlins requires contractors to be licensed for three reasons:

1. Our licensing process includes the contractor proving they have relevant training and experience. This varies by type of work they perform, and certain contractors such as electrical and plumbing are also regulated by the state.
2. Our licensing requires the contractor to be current with their general liability insurance, which provides protection for the quality of the work and protects you from liability if the contractor is injured on your property.
3. We help hold licensed contractors accountable for pulling the proper permits and for getting the required inspections so that we can inspect the quality of work.

How do I find a contractor?

The City can help you find a licensed contractor. Our office has a complete list of current licensed contractors available upon request in person, by email or by phone. All contractor's files, including any complaints, are public record available upon request. Contractors should be able to furnish a copy of their current license with their name, number and expiration date.

What are my responsibilities when I begin a construction project?

Although the City has a system to help protect our residents, the homeowner also has responsibilities.

- If you are starting a project, we can help from the beginning. Visit with Community Development and even schedule a free site visit to understand the process your project will require.
- Make sure your contractor is licensed by the City.
- For all construction that requires a permit, various inspections will be required which are listed on the permit paperwork. Touch base with your contractor and/or the City about these inspections.
- If you ever have any concerns about your contractor, please reach out to the Community Development Department. The sooner we are notified, the more able we are to help identify the issue and take action.
- Contractors are required to show they are completing the work properly. We prefer to work with the contractor to correct the issue. If they do not complete the work properly, they can be fined, given a violation letter, and even have their license removed by the City.

What other protection do I have?

The City of Rawlins is limited to fining contractors and eventually removing their license. If you have problems with the work done by a contractor, you do have options to pursue:

1. Collecting against the contractor's insurance, either independently or in conjunction with your homeowner's insurance.
2. Make a legal claim against the contractor in civil court.
